WILLIAM DAVIS

William DAVIS was born Jan. 2, 1830, at Wilsford, Wiltshire, England. He was the son of Robert DAVIS and Mary BAILEY. He was educated in the common schools of his native land. He came to Utah in 1854, and settled at Heber, Wasatch, Utah. He was a farmer by occupation. He was married to Charlotte BROWN on Feb. 2, 1852. They had four children: Elizabeth HOPE, Mary GODDARD (COLLINS), Charlotte ANDREWS, and William DAVIS. He died May 6, 1891, at Heber, Utah, and was buried in the Heber City Cemetery. He was 61 years of age at the time of his death.

From New York they went to the village of Wilsford, in Wiltshire, on the Massachusetts border, and met by ox teams and wagon, and went to Utah to bring the family to the new home in Utah.

When they arrived at Heber, Utah, they met Mr. and Mrs. M. and six years old, and a son, who was named William. While William was present, he could to help and comfort his father, who had been in a sick condition for some time. When they went to him and he could not get up, he put his arms around them and said, "I am glad to see you." He passed away and was buried in the same place.

When they made arrangements to go back to New York, he said, "I don't want to leave you. I don't want to leave you. I don't want to leave you." He died on the 6th of May, 1891. The family was very sad at his death. He was a very good man and a very good father. He was a very good man and a very good father. He was a very good man and a very good father.

When they finally arrived in Utah, their son, William DAVIS, who had been in the army for some years, met them in Salt Lake City and brought them to the Heber home, where he made his home many years.

WILLIAM DAVIS

William Davis was born January 2, 1830, in Wilsford, Wiltshire, England, on a farm and became an expert plowman, taking many prizes at plowing matches. He married Elizabeth Hope about 1854, near where they were both born and reared. He was baptized February 2, 1852, by Elder George Stone (and probably Elizabeth, too), near their birth place.

In 1864 they made arrangements to sail from Liverpool on the sailing ship "Hudson," in the latter part of May, with their four children. The date of sailing was postponed a few days so the family, having disposed of their household goods, went to visit with Elizabeth's parents until the ship sailed. While there, their youngest child was taken ill and died on the 29th of May. The family had to be in Liverpool the next day, so had to leave without having the privilege of attending the funeral of their little one. It was a severe trial to leave, but the sailing ship would leave them if they were not there. The boat sailed May 31, 1864. They were on the Atlantic ocean six weeks and a few days, landing at New York on July 19,

From New York they went to the village of Wyoming, which is on the Missouri River. There they were met by ox teams and wagons sent from Utah to bring the emigrants across the plains to Utah.

A few days after starting, Elizabeth and her little son Moroni, six years old, became seriously ill with dysentery. While William was doing all he could to help and comfort his wife, his little son called in a weak voice, "Daddy, daddy." William went to him and learned he wanted soup. He promised to get some and turned back to his wife, who was dying. He begged her to try to live and prayed to the Lord to spare her, but she passed away. He turned to go to his little boy and get some soup for him, but he was too late. The sisters came to do what they could. He had to bury them by the side of the road, without coffins and little time for ceremonies.

When they finally arrived in Utah, their Uncle William Hail Stone, who had been in Utah some years, met them in Echo Canyon and brought them to the Hailstone ranch, where he made his home many years.

On April 10, 1865, William Davis married Mary Goddard Colind, in the Endowment House. She had lost her husband on the plains in 1864. She made a splendid stepmother to William's two remaining children. His son was drowned three years after their arrival while trying to cross high water in the Provo River in a wagon.

Their ranch home was by the side of the road and anyone who needed help or food were always made welcome at the Davis ranch. William and Mary Goddard Colind Davis reared a family of four sons and two daughters.

William Davis acted as Presiding Elder at Eikhorn for some years, also the office of a High Priest. In 1866 and 1867 he took part in the Black Hawk War.

He was called to pass through severe trials, but he kept jovial and cheerful as long as he lived and his faith in God never faltered.
